

Splendid Values in Stationery

Good paper is always accepted as an indication of refinement in the person who uses it. It need not be high priced, but should be well chosen.

For your particular correspondence, the old-fashioned paper—usually sold in quires—will not answer.

We can sell you an elegant quality of paper with envelopes to match—that is in correct style—for a very reasonable price.

We have box papers, bulk papers and fancy writing tablets.

NEGRO UNDER ARREST MONEY RECOVERED

J. V. Rosprim of Rosprim, carried a bale of seed cotton to the Eden & Co. gin in this city yesterday afternoon to be ginned, and forget to remove $33 in silver he had hidden in the cotton. As soon as Mr. Rosprim discovered his loss he notified Sheriff Conlee, who went immediately to Ruben Rogers, colored, who operates the suction elevator at the gin. The negro denied any knowledge of the money, but was arrested and placed in jail.

This morning Mr. Conlee made a thorough search for the money and found it secreted under a piece of wood in the rear of the seed house. The negro was confronted with the facts, acknowledged his guilt, and is now in jail awaiting a preliminary hearing.

BULLETIN ISSUED ON COTTONSEED MEAL

That the principal phosphorous compound of cotton seed meal, which some scientists have claimed, caused death when the meal is fed to pigs, is identical with that found in wheat bran that is claimed to have a very beneficial action whenever fed to farm animals is shown by an experimental study of the phosphorous compound of cotton seed meal and wheat bran which has been conducted by J. B. Rather, assistant chemist at the State Experiment Station, A. and M. College. The results of this investigation have been chronicled in bulletin No. 156, which has just been published by Mr. Rather and which may be had by request from the Director of Experiment Stations, College Station, Texas.

The bulletin deals with the composition and properties of an organic phosphoric acid which is widely distributed in feeding materials. While it is purely technical and intended for technical readers only, the bulletin is for the ultimate benefit of agriculture.

The study of these compounds covered a period of many months and required much painstaking effort on the part of Mr. Rather, who is a graduate of the A. and M. College.

The farmer that markets his produce when the demand is strongest reaps the best reward.

Honesty is a boomerang that never looks better to a man than when it comes home to roost.

FARM FACTS

Nature is unkind to the unwise. Only the fittest survive in farming.

The economic distribution of farm products is today the world's greatest problem.

Agriculture has gone through two thousand years of evolution and is still in an experimental stage.

The farmer can produce without organization, but to successfully market he must have the co-operation of his neighbor.

The farmer is able to get about on the farm, but he loses his way in the market places where he needs most assistance.

Greece and Rome went down to their death when the population became congested in the cities and the farms were forgotten.

If your business in the city does not pay, do not go to the farm. There are already too many down-and-outs in agriculture.

ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

Sheriff Conlee arrested Kit Thomas and Jarrett Craven, two strange negroes for vagrancy, and both plead guilty this morning, and were fined $14.85. Craven paid his fine and was set free, but Thomas did not and was placed in jail.

Neglected Neighborhoods.

You can find in almost any town a "neglected neighborhood." The easiest thing to do with such a neighborhood is to keep on neglecting it.

It is so easy for us to study these topics as if they were about other places and people than ourselves and our homes. Is there a neglected corner in your town or in your county? If there is, what are you going to do about it? Not "What have you been doing about it?" or "What ought you to do about it?" but "What are you going to do about it?"

If you can't get the committee interested do something yourself. Do not be afraid.

The thing is to get started. You see, as soon as you have started something the neighborhood is no longer neglected. And then it will be an easier matter to get some one to come in and help.—Christian Herald.

The Passing of a Type.

The hard contemporary fact is that the gloriously maned authors are becoming sadly rare, even rarer than long haired actors. The long haired musician is still with us, though one of the most eminent masters of the pianoforte has yielded something to the modern spirit by submitting briefly to the shears. Individual age has here a potent influence—age, or the getting through with things. What a wonderfully picturesque person Dickens was at twenty-five! And how matter of fact at forty! Browning suffered a similarly sobering and averaging effect. The same thing is true of many other figures in that period, and it is not easy to guess whether the changing fashion set in during their middle years or whether advancing age would have effected the same change in any case.—Atlantic Monthly.
